A SPECIAL THANK YOU

This report is dedicated to the many generous supporters of N Street Village, who continue to empower the nearly 2,000 women who come through the Village doors every year.
Dear Friends,

Inside these pages, you will read stories of women whose grit and determination enabled them to build the lives they envisioned at N Street Village. Your investments of time, talent, and treasure are a key part of this personal triumph. Together we create this community of hospitality and hope for nearly 2,000 women each year. Yet our work is far from over. Every single night, N Street Village’s emergency shelter is at full capacity. Likewise, D.C. saw an increase in its Annual Point in Time Count for the first time in years.

The need for you – our Village supporters – remains urgent.

Since 2011, we have tripled our housing capacity – growing from one to five Village locations offering safe shelter and longer-term housing. During this same period, we enhanced our wrap-around programs for health, mental health, substance abuse, HIV/AIDS, criminal justice re-entry, and trauma.

We know the homelessness crisis is only the tip of the iceberg with respect to poverty issues – the visible sign of deep inequities that affect our city. And while this poverty crisis is further upheld by less visible forces, the statistics speak loudly. For example, D.C.’s population is 44% African-American and yet, represents a disproportionate 88% of D.C.’s homeless population.

We see the result at our doors each day, as at least one new woman arrives daily. You have continued to be there for her and the thousands of women who rely on N Street Village. Your support is not merely “giving to charity” but “doing justice.”

We are grateful for your commitment as we strive for a future that is just and inclusive for every D.C. resident. Thank you for standing with us at N Street Village’s front door as we greet the woman who will arrive tomorrow.

We will meet you there and look forward to sharing our welcome and hope.

Esther was one of ten children growing up. She finished high school with honors and was on track to start college when several members of her family died unexpectedly, right in sequence. Esther was devastated in a way she couldn’t shake.

“Those deaths knocked me totally off course,” Esther remembered. “I couldn’t understand why it happened, and it made me question everything.”

Esther took a few college courses, but eventually decided to leave school to work. She made good money at a bank and jewelry store, but her family started to notice something wasn’t quite right.

“They told me I would have highs and lows. My family wanted to help, but they didn’t know what to do.”

What Esther and her family didn’t know was that she was experiencing bipolar disorder. Without a formal diagnosis and treatment, Esther’s mental health continued to deteriorate. She lost her job, then her home. Her family tried to help, but it was too late. Homeless, Esther was told to go to the Patricia Handy Place for Women, the Village’s emergency shelter.

The staff at Patricia Handy were able to get Esther the mental health interventions and support that she needed, including coping skills to deal with stress and emotional trauma.

Once her emotions began to stabilize, Esther was able to focus on her housing goals – compiling all the necessary documentation and working with the Village’s advocates to go through D.C.’s housing process.

Finally, after a year in the shelter, Esther was proud to move into her own apartment!

Carol grew up in D.C. with parents who had good jobs and could afford to send her to private school. At age 19, she had her first child and got married, followed by five more kids.

But despite the joy of her children, Carol endured three decades of violent abuse from her husband until she couldn’t take it anymore. She found the courage to leave him and never looked back.

Carol got a job with the TSA for 13 years until she was injured on the job. The TSA paid her severance – which was a blessing at first. But Carol soon found herself with nothing to do, in pain, and alone with the traumatic memories from her marriage. She started using drugs as a way to escape, but couldn’t stop.

She lost her apartment and then her car. Her relationship with her family really suffered. She was hopeless, homeless, and couldn’t ignore anymore that she needed help. Carol checked herself into treatment, and that is when she found out about N Street Village.

Going into the Village’s Recovery Program, she wasn’t sure what to expect. But what she found was a sisterhood. As a survivor of domestic violence, it was helpful to be surrounded by women who could understand what she’d been through and keep her accountable.

Carol has also been able to enroll in the Village’s MARJ & MAK Vocational Center. Working closely with staff, she has applied for disability benefits, improved her credit score, and now has a job at a local drugstore.

Today, Carol is excited about the future. “It’s like I am starting new – my kids are grown, and I finally have what it takes to work on myself. My parents are proud of me and my children are proud of me. And I know I’ll always have the support of my Village sisters too.”

SPOTLIGHT: HOUSING & INCOME

D.C. is ranked the 5TH MOST EXPENSIVE
city to live in the U.S.

- $1,966 average cost to rent a one bedroom apartment in D.C.

- $27.75/hr the wage you’d need to afford that one bedroom. As of July 2019, D.C.’s minimum wage was $14.

- 1 in 2 CLIENTS have no income when they arrive, and of those that do, 54% fall below the Federal Poverty Level ($12,140/year).

WHY PERMANENT SUPPORTIVE HOUSING (PSH)?

Beyond the challenges of income, even deeply affordable housing is out of reach for many Village clients. That’s why N Street Village provides Permanent Supportive Housing (PSH), which combines affordable housing with supportive services that provide clients with the tools to cope with mental health, addiction, trauma, physical health problems and other issues. According to the National Alliance to End Homelessness, PSH reduces the usage of publicly funded crisis services (like jails, hospitalizations, and emergency departments), and increases stability and well-being.

- 200+ the number of PSH units at N Street Village.

- PSH has been shown to reduce chronic homelessness by 30%.*

- Taxpayers spend 49.5% less per year on individuals living in PSH than those living on the streets.*

Growing up, both of Phyllis’s parents were drug addicts. At age six, her mother and grandfather started sexually abusing her. Unable to take the abuse anymore, she left home at age 14. Over the next 30 years, her life was a cycle of living on the streets, drugs, and jail. On top of the continued trauma of being homeless, Phyllis learned she had contracted HIV from one of the family members who assaulted her.

At age 36, she arrived at N Street Village. She met Village staff member Evelyn Green, who helped her get serious about her substance use recovery and completed the Village’s Recovery Program.

Although she didn’t stay connected to the Village, Phyllis lived on her own and maintained her recovery. In 2014, she began having circulation issues in her leg and doctors were forced to amputate from the knee down. But even this wasn’t enough to diminish Phyllis’s positive attitude and she returned home in a wheelchair.

Then one night Phyllis awoke to gunshots. She opened her apartment door to a gruesome crime scene that left her terror-stricken. “No matter what I did, I didn’t feel safe. So I went back to the one place I knew I could get help.” Phyllis was welcomed back to the Village with open arms. Today, she is working on her mental and physical health. She is proud to be a member of the Village’s Volunteer Corp, where she shares her time and skills.

Best of all, Phyllis is finishing physical therapy to get a new prosthetic leg. When asked what she is most looking forward to with her new leg, she immediately has an answer:

“Dancing at N Street Village.”
